

Multi-coloured waterfall

Rainbow overflows and a wet edge spa make this pool a stunning showpiece

To create a backyard pool oasis that fits in with the surrounding features of the house requires working closely with the client and their specific thoughts. Burcher Pools was able to turn their ideas and dreams into a reality.

When building a pool, selecting the right colour scheme can be a difficult task. You want colours that will work to create the right mood and atmosphere. This pool's colour scheme stretches across all corners of the spectrum and, if you change your mind, a touch of the button will change it.

The owners of this property wanted a pool that was different to the norm — something modern that would be fun to swim in and attractive to look at.

By using pre-sealed travertine for the paving and coping, Burcher Pools created an opulent and modern pool with elegant lines and a sophisticated spa. The muted natural colour of the travertine forms a spectacular contrast with the greenery on either side of the pool and, a shade that complements all of the changeable colour schemes inside the pool.

To create pools such as this, Burcher Pools never stops striving for perfection. The company created a spectacular semi-circle spa — large enough to seat five adults comfortably — at the end of the pool, and finished this with a wet edge, which creates stunning fluid lines along the pool surface. During construction, extra thought and effort was put into building a waterfall and a swim step as part of the pool shell to form flowing lines and features.

The end result is a wonderful pool with a heated spa with a wet edge overflow. The eye-catching waterfall is clearly the focal point of the pool and the whole backyard, making a spectacular setting. At night, the pool becomes an indulgent contemporary masterpiece via the LED multi-function lighting to form a GALA effect. •
